CONFUSING IS THE only way all of us at The Press can describe the disruption of our operation caused by the holiday season.

But it happens every year and, although it makes things sort of complicated at the time, after a while we get somewhat immune to the situation.

Starting at Thanksgiving time, the regular schedule at our joint becomes so involved that all of us have to think twice to remember just what day of the week it is.

And we won't really get straightened out until after the new year is under way.

You see, in order to come out early on Thanksgiving week (Monday instead of Wednesday), the crew had to work on Saturday.

The place was closed on Wednesday and Thursday.

But we were back in the saddle again on Friday.

The staff is more or less geared to building up to a climax each week on Tuesday night when the newspaper is put to bed.

Thus you can imagine how difficult it becomes to keep the days of the week straight when this long-established routine is broken.

It will happen again on Christmas and New Year's.

Somehow we will probably muddle through.

We always have.

A NICE GESTURE ON the part of the present national administration is the "remembering" of birthdays of some senior citizens by a card from the White House.

It is a gesture that may have very little political connotation to it but it is certainly appreciated by the recipients.

One of the proud possessors of a birthday card from the White House is JOE KEESLING, of 1061 Ridgeley Dr., a long-time resident of this community.

Recently Joe passed his 78th birthday mark and one of the highlights of the occasion, of course, was the card which came as a complete surprise to him.

And he doesn't know the President, either.

We are happy to add our congratulations to Joe, along with those of President Nixon.

ONCE IN A WHILE OUTstanding evidence of the strong "pulling power" of The Campbell Press manifests itself.

Obviously we enjoy sharing such evidence with you to sort of prove what we have been telling potential advertisers in this area for years.

We maintain that this community weekly newspaper offers local merchants the proper vehicle to use to reach customers they want to serve.

We make no bones about the fact that we are confined to the Campbell area.

But then again where are the local merchants getting their business?

But what we started to tell you was the latest bit of evidence indicating the advertising value of The Press.

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER of our classified ad department, Bert Campbell, a longtime resident of this community, has become an enthusiastic booster of the advertising columns of this sheet.

Campbell's son, who lives in the Santa Cruz area, is a Model T buff and asked his father to look around and see if he could locate a Model T Ford roadster body for him.

Just where one would look for a Model T body is something else again. But that's not the point.

Campbell, naturally, turned to The Campbell Press. After all he has been a subscriber of it for 50 years or so.

A simply stated want ad was run: "Wanted: Model T

Opposition continues

Petition misses in loop battle

Opponents to the proposed north loop street that would run 295-feet north of Campbell Ave. apparently have lost their first battle to force the City Council to suspend the ordinance establishing the plan line for the street, according to City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan. But their opposition will continue.

Mrs. Trevethan reported that the opponents by the deadline (Wed., Nov. 26) had submitted petitions containing 802 names of registered voters. This was 32 short of the required number (834) that would force suspension of the ordinance which became effective 30 days after its adoption. It was adopted Oct. 27.

Mrs. Trevethan indicated also that some of the signatures, she had noted, were not Campbell voters. She said that she had reported to City Manager Bob Stephens that she felt it did not warrant sending the signatures to the Registrar of Voters for verification.

City Attorney Joe Bonacina, at the last City Council meeting when Mrs. Opal Graham, of 46 N. Second St., presented a petition with 551 names, informed the petitioners that they had until Wed., Nov. 26 to obtain the required number of signatures for suspension.

Bonacina instructed the city clerk that should the petitions be sufficient, the next step would be to have the names checked by the registrar.

Mrs. Graham and Ollie Jensen, as spokesmen for the north loop opponents, told the City Council that it would be more practical and serve the same purpose to build a south loop first, pointing out that this route could follow Rincon Ave. and thus be less expensive than building a new street as contemplated in the north loop plan.

However, some residents on Rincon Ave., who signed the petition against the north loop concept, have maintained they did not know about the south loop plan (Rincon) when they signed the petition against the north loop.

At the City Council meeting, two councilmen, Ralph Doetsch and Bill Smeed, who had opposed the north loop plan originally, told the opponents that their opposition was coming too late. It should have been voiced at the earlier hearings several years ago when the matter was first discussed.

Both councilmen emphasized that the city had taken official action on the concept by a majority vote and thus

REAPPOINTED---Mrs. Margaret V. Mastrovich (left), of 150 W. Hamilton Ave., and Bill Podgorsek, of 860 Virginia Ave., have been reappointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission by the City Council.

Both commissioners in letters to the City Council reported that they felt their experience on the commission had been interesting and rewarding and indicated they would like to continue to serve as commissioners.

Both were active in the successful park bond campaign last spring. Podgorsek served as chairman of the citizens committee for the park bonds. The terms are for three years.

CofC elects eight new directors for next year

Two bankers, two real estate men, two representatives of industrial firms, an educator and a savings and loan executive were winners in the balloting for the eight openings on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The ballots were counted last Friday. Len Edholm, manager of the CofC, reported that 73 ballots were returned by members. There were 15 candidates for the board.

Elected were Tom State, manager of the local branch of the First National Bank; Ed Fabbri, manager of Campbell Ave. branch of Bank of America; Myron Alexander and Holly Vollenweider, realtors; Dean Vesling, manager of the IBM card plant; Ed Meszaros, of DeLuxe Check Printers; Bill Deal, of West Valley College and Jim Schafer, manager of Colonial Savings.

The new directors were elected for two-year terms and will take office in January. The eight new board members and seven hold-over directors will comprise the governing board in conducting the affairs of the CofC next year, along with Neal Royer, Superintendent of the elementary school district and outgoing president.

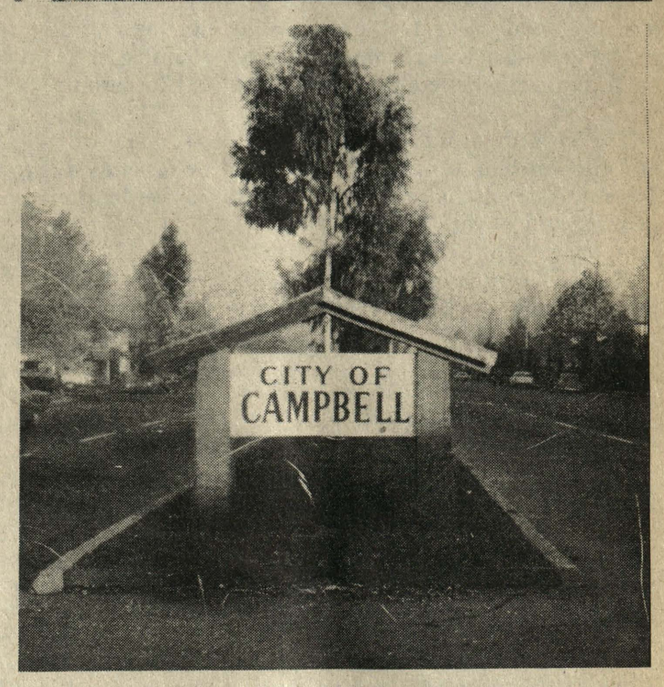
Bob Bullard, CPA, now serving as first vice-president is slated to move up to the presidency succeeding Royer and Norm Paul, co-owner of the Plaza Theaters, now second vice-president, is scheduled to move up a notch to first vice-president.

A second vice-president and treasurer will also be named by the board at the first meeting of the year. Bob Blonder, manager of First Valley Bank, a hold-over director is the present treasurer.

Hold-over directors include the Rev. W. H. (Ben) Gould, pastor of the First United Methodist Church and Jim O'Brien, of the Hamilton branch of the Bank of America, who were elected last month to the board to replace Jerry Arca, of Pacific Telephone and Bill Oltmann, local accountant, who resigned.

Mrs. Jeanette Watson, head of the city's beautification committee, and Al LaPlante, New York Life representative, round out the hold-over group.

The directors may also appoint four at-large directors to serve for one-year terms.



ENTRANCE SIGN---For the first time in the history of the city, an official entrance sign has been installed. The design, construction and installation of the sign, located in the median strip of W. Hamilton Ave., was a civic project of the Campbell JayCees. The design was approved by the City Council. The Campbell Garden Club has indicated that it will undertake the landscaping around the sign with the city picking up the tab for the necessary lighting. Dave Norman (left) and Mike Kennedy are shown putting the finishing touches on the installation. Rich Smith also assisted. The same design will be used in other entrance signs that will be installed.

Backyard burning ban could mean more 'pickups'

Backyard burning which will be prohibited after Jan. 1, 1970 by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District ruling should not present a problem to local residents, according to information that will be presented at the City Council meeting next Monday, Dec. 8, by the Green Valley Disposal Co.

The disposal firm, which has the garbage and trash franchise within the city limits of Campbell, had been requested by the City Council, at the urging of the city's Beautification Committee, to outline the effect the burning ban would have on the trash pickups.

Green Valley Disposal has indicated that it has the facilities to increase the pickup service, if householders desire it.

The disposal company explains that customers may increase the number of cans to be picked up and special pickup services will be provided on one day's notice. A letter containing similar information has been sent to all their customers, Green Valley reports.

At next Monday's meeting, the City Council will consider a franchise application for another cable television company, Nationwide Cable Vision. The city has already granted a CATV franchise to Gill Industries but under the city ordinance it is not necessarily an exclusive franchise.

The Council is also expected to consider the petitions opposing the north loop plan line which did not have sufficient signatures to suspend the ordinance (see separate story).

The Council has also been informed that the merchants in the Campbell Shopping

IN SAN DIEGO

Members of the City Council are in San Diego this week attending the week-long session of the National League of Cities.

Most of the councilmen are expected back on either Wednesday or Friday.

This is the first time that the National League of Cities have held its annual session on the west coast.

For first time

Youth Commission meets this Thursday

Members of Campbell's first Youth Advisory Commission, representing three high schools in the area, will meet for the first time this Thursday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers in the City Hall.

At the last City Council meeting, nine members were named to the commission, plus two "honorary" or ex-officio members. Five of the members come from Campbell High, two from Del Mar and one from Westmont.

The council members, in making the appointments, despite a request for modification of the city residential requirement by Russell Hammer, a leader in the formation of the commission, to the city policy, held firm.

Consequently, every member of the city's newest advisory group lives within the city limits.

The screening committee, headed by Councilman Ralph Doetsch, had recommended that Karen Crawford, of 1605 Sheffield, a junior at Del Mar High, be appointed to the Commission, although she resides in an unincorporated section.

Miss Crawford, it was pointed out, had been one of the key organizers in the Father Leonard W. Bose assumes duties as St. Lucy's new pastor

The Rev. Leonard W. Bose, who was installed as the new pastor of St. Lucy's Catholic Church in Campbell on Nov. 23, took an active part in community affairs in Mountain View, where he was pastor of St. Athanasius parish for 10 years.

Father Bose succeeds Father John Lally who has been assigned to St. Bartholomew's in San Mateo.

Father Bose established the parish in Mountain View and during his 10 years there directed the construction of a school, rectory, convent and new church building.

In addition to his parish activities, Father Bose served on the United Fund board and was a member of the general planning board for the city of Mountain View. He also served on the mayor's award committee.

Father Bose, like Father Lally, who served as pastor of St. Lucy's for almost 10 years, is a native of San Francisco. He attended St. Joseph's College in Mountain View and received his religious training at St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park.

He was ordained March 20, 1943. Prior to going to St. Athanasius in Mountain View, he served as assistant pastor at St. Catherine's in Burlingame and St. Brigid's in San Francisco. He also served as administrator of St. Mary's Church in Vacaville just before going to Mountain View.

His father, William A. Bose still resides in San Francisco, of which city he is also a native. Father Bose has a brother, Paul E. Bose, residing in Fresno and a sister, Mrs. M. William (Bertha) Chilcote, of Fremont.

Father Bose also will continue as a member of the Catholic Social Service Board of Santa Clara County.

Civic involvement

There is nothing wrong whatsoever with the citizens of this community voicing their opposition via petitions, letters or oral arguments against the proposed north loop street for which the City Council has recently adopted an official plan line.

The only fault we find with this opposition is that it comes a little late.

The north loop street, as you will recall, is the only solution that has been devised to alleviate the horrendous traffic problem on Campbell Ave. which is progressively getting worse.

And the idea was not adopted overnight.

The north loop street plan was adopted only after years of study and research had been made of the situation and only after many public hearings were held. The idea was recommended by planning consultants under the federally subsidized '701' program.

The consultant indicated that two loops, one north and one south of Campbell Ave., should be developed. Thus the north loop plan is the first phase in the carrying out of this recommendation.

No one can maintain that the north loop street is the utopia and that it will solve the traffic problem on the street in one fell swoop.

That would be ridiculous.

But the adoption of the plan line for the north loop street is the FIRST concrete step that has been taken to "do something" about Campbell Ave.

We are first to agree that the north loop plan may not be the answer in the alleviation of the traffic congestion on the street through the "old part" of downtown Campbell.

The way the traffic congestion has increased year after year has continuously compounded the problem so there can be no immediate solution.

We think the record should also show that the concept of the north loop street was approved by a divided City Council.

But this does not mean that the minority of two councilmen on that particular issue does not subscribe the legal action of the entire City Council. The majority has to rule, if any definite action can be taken on any issue.

We readily concede that the idea of building a south loop, following Rincon Ave., has considerable merit.

That idea has been advanced by the opponents to the north loop.

Of course, there is always the question of whether the people in the so-called south loop area won't feel the same way as the people who reside in the north loop sector. We seriously doubt very much if the people on Rincon Ave. would be overjoyed over the prospect. That's just human nature.

But that really is not the point.

The concept of the north loop and the decision to make it the first phase of the effort to "do something about Campbell Ave." was NOT done in secret sessions.

What we are saying, of course, is that the opposition to the north loop should have made itself known a long time ago.

Involved, of course, at the present time is the location of the new civic center which is now in its final planning stages. The property has been acquired and when the design of the building is finally determined, construction will start.

Obviously the north loop street has a bearing on the civic center complex, for the city hall will be located on the street.

Yet the city can probably "live with" a different plan for a street pattern, should it be decided that there is a better way to go than the north loop way.

This newspaper has continuously advocated that involvement of the citizens is necessary, if any community is to move forward.

We have submitted that it was this involvement that made it possible for the civic improvement bond issues to be passed in October, 1967 for streets and civic center and in June, 1969 for parks.

We are justifiably proud of this involvement. It proved that Campbell had come of age and its citizens were interested in this community's future.

Therefore, we are pleased that another citizen involvement is in the making, even if it is of what could be classified of a somewhat negative nature.

In the civic bond measure campaigns and in the other civic projects, the citizens have participated, however, because of their interest in the overall community development.

We are pleased that the north loop opponents have shown interest in their community. We think that is a healthy sign.

And if they are able to convince the City Council that there is a better plan for the city as a whole than the north loop concept, they will be doing a service to their city if their idea is sound and practical.

But civic interest and civic activity should not be motivated alone by individual feelings on any single issue.

This community needs the involvement of its citizens on so many civic issues.

Ford roadster body"....

And Bert found exactly what his son wanted....

A reader of The Campbell Press (Henry Bottelo) just happened to have a Model T roadster body on hand that he didn't need.

Everyone was happy as clams over the whole bit.

Including The Campbell Press.

How about that?

"DEARLY BELOVED"—Among the many fond memories St. Lucy's parishioners have of Father John Lally, who recently was assigned to San Mateo after serving here for 10 years, was Father Lally's salutation for every sermon he delivered..."Dearly beloved", was the way he would begin.

That salutation became a trademark of his over the years.

In fact, Father Lally mentioned that Father John Brennan, now associate pastor of St. Lucy's, heard about the phrase before he even came to Campbell.

Some priests in the San Jose area informed the young pastor that he was being assigned to "dearly beloved's parish".

We think that is a fine way to be remembered.

ONE OF THE INTEResting results of the street improvement project that is underway on Bascom and Campbell avenues, is that right turn lane off Bascom onto Campbell.

A pole now splits that turning lane right smack dab in the center.

Fortunately, (at least that's what we have been told) when the job is finally completed, the utility lines along the street will go underground.

Otherwise we shudder to think of what could happen.

There are poles, of course, in the parking lane all along Bascom. These poles are barricades but still offer a hazard to the careless driver.

It will probably be only a question of time when some sort of informal contest will be held with drivers scooting in and out among the poles.

But that pole in the right turning lane at Campbell Ave., is really in a vulnerable spot.

We traverse that way quite often and we still are not sure whether we should go on the right or left of that pole.

There is ample room on either side for one car.

Incidentally while waiting for the long signal to change recently before making a left turn onto Bascom from Campbell, we made a survey of the cars that made the right turn as to what side of the pole the motorists used.

Before the signal changed, four cars had made the turn off Bascom onto Campbell Ave.

Two of 'em took the low road and two took the high road.

That's not a bad balance.

Of course, there could be a problem, if a car on the right side and a car on the left side of the pole, tried to funnel into Campbell Ave., at the same time.

Something would have to give.

No ties are allowed.

THERE WERE A NUMber of interesting observations made by the students who participated in the recent Student Government Day in Campbell.

The kids assumed the offices of city department heads and city councilmen for one day and were exposed to some of the municipal problems, and projects.

In the evening they conducted their own council meeting, just prior to the regular City Council session.

Some of the youngsters were quite practical in their outlook while others were idealistic in their viewpoints.

But you know something, isn't that just about the way things run in general among adult citizens!

Deadlines set for Christmas mail deliveries

Deadlines for Christmas mailing were announced by the Campbell post office as Christmas looms on the calendar only 22 days away.

Cards to distant points in the USA must be mailed by Dec. 10; air mail items APO's and FPO's by Dec. 13, as well as local packages by that date.

Local cards should be mailed prior to Dec. 15. Richard Adams, officer-in-charge of the Campbell office announced that the new Christmas stamps may be purchased during the regular business hours, with the office being open 8:45 a.m. through 5:15 p.m. on Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday. There will be no Saturday afternoon or Sunday service for this year, so MAIL EARLY.

Monsignor John Healy, of St. Christopher's in San Jose, dean of the Catholic clergy in the San Jose area, installed Father Bose as pastor of St. Lucy's at the 12:15 Mass on Sunday, Nov. 23. A reception for the new pastor was held in Kennelly Hall after the Mass.

Father Bose is only the third pastor the church has had since St. Lucy's became a full-fledged parish in 1947. Father Lally, in Feb. 1960, succeeded Father Denis Kennelly, after whom the hall has been named. Father Kennelly passed away several years ago.

they were committed to it.

Jensen, at the meeting, commended Mrs. Graham for her efforts and told the Council that if the issue was presented to the people at the polls it would be overwhelmingly defeated.

Had the petitions been sufficient, Mrs. Trevethan pointed out, and if the Council did not suspend the ordinance, it would be mandatory to present the question at the next city election.

City hall observers also point out that the City Council could suspend the ordinance even without the necessary signatures and reopen the entire matter.

That could, however, delay the construction of the civic center complex which present plans call for to be located on the north loop.

Opponents of the north loop plan, although failing to force the suspension, have indicated that they will continue to oppose the north loop concept.

Rezoning issues divide Planning Commission

It took three motions and some fairly warm verbal exchanges between members on Monday night before the Planning Commission voted (4-3) to recommend R-2-S (medium density multiples) zoning for properties on W. Campbell Ave. adjacent to the San Tomas Expressway.

Lowell Grattan, of Pan Pacific Properties, had requested the two lots (540 and 640 W. Campbell Ave.) be zoned commercial. At the previous Commission meeting, the matter had been deferred when the motion to rezone the parcels R-2-S (the same zoning approved Monday) lost by a 4-2 count. (One commissioner, Chairman Ed Pack, was absent.)

Advocates of the R-2-S zoning for the property maintained that the general plan, recently modified, called for that type of zoning.

However, those favoring commercial submitted that a light commercial operation was more practical than apartments.

Grattan had indicated in his presentation that the location was desirable for a facility "serving the motoring public."

The hearing was closed Monday and no one could speak from the floor on the issue, although Grattan attempted to call attention to pertinent items at times.

Grattan also took the floor after the final vote to argue that Chairman Pack should have abstained from the voting because he had been absent at the previous meeting.

When it came time to voting, it went something like this:

A motion by Jack Healey to rezone the parcels R-D (duplexes) failed on a 4-3 count. Frank Klein and Pack joined Healey on the voting with Thayer Lyons, Dale Scott, Merrill Grim and Norm Paul voting it down.

The second motion (by Scott) to rezone it commercial (C-1-S) failed by the same tally, 4-3. This time Paul, Pack, Healey and Klein opposed it with Grim, Scott and Lyons on the other side.

The successful motion to rezone it R-2-S was made by Klein and Paul, Pack and Healey joined him. Grim, Scott and Lyons were on the losing side.

The Commissioners on Monday night also reversed by a 5-2 count a previous action they had taken on another zone change matter.

R. V. Cloud had requested that the zoning on a small parcel of his property be changed from C-M-S (controlled manufacturing) to M-1-S to allow him to build an auto center for three tenants who already committed to move from their present locations in the Camden area.

Because of the interchange and closed streets, the three Campbell business firms would be forced to leave the city, it was stated. Cloud, owner of a wholesale plumbing concern, had agreed to build a suitable building for them but C-M restrictions would not allow it.

The Commission had originally rejected the zone change. But the City Council had asked the body to reconsider it based on additional information.

Cloud was represented at the meeting by John M. Chargin, former planning commissioner and mayor, who was on the City Council when the area in question was zoned C-M-S.

Chargin maintained that the zone change would not harm the other C-M-S areas.

Voting for the zone change to M-1-S were Lyons, Paul, Grim, Scott and Pack. Healey and Klein opposed it.

By another 4-3 vote, the Commission recommended a 3-acre parcel at W. Hacienda near Virginia and at the proposed extension of Capri be rezoned from R-1 (single family) to R-D (duplexes).

The applicant, Marie Payne, had requested R-3-S zoning.

Healey, Paul, Klein and Pack voted for the R-D, with Lyons, Grim and Scott opposed.

In another rezoning matter, Grim was the lone negative vote on the recommendation that property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sanders, at 375 Budd Ave., adjacent to Rincon Park, be rezoned from R-1 to R-D.

In preliminary matters to the rezoning issues, the Commission approved the remodeling plans for Douglas Oil at Winchester and Hamilton; a parking lot for the Tire Service Co. at 2250 Winchester and a parking lot for Dr. John Hughes and Dr. Wayne Hopp for their medical center at Winchester and Hamilton.

The Commission also granted extension of time for the development of Sherman Zell for a 59-unit apartment at 481 W. Hacienda and for Leo Freschi for a warehouse on Sunnyoaks.

Center (Latimer at Winchester) have agreed to allow street trees to be planted by the city on the edge of the shopping center on Winchester. Agreement by the merchants was necessary because of the lack of space for the trees in the right-of-way area.

In a rather complicated zoning matter, the Council is also scheduled Monday to act on the zone change request of R. V. Cloud for property at Hacienda near Winchester.

Cloud had asked for the zoning to be changed from controlled manufacturing to light industrial to allow him to build an auto care center. The Planning Commission originally turned down the request but the issue was referred back to the Commission by the Council for restudy.

On Monday night, the Commission reversed itself and approved the requested zone change (see separate story).

The Council on Monday is also slated to discuss the recommendations made by the Planning Commission for modifications in the density requirements in R-2-S and R-3-S zones.

At the last City Council meeting held before Thanksgiving holidays, in another Planning Commission - City Council matter, the Council on an appeal by A. C. Morici, developer of the former Gomes Ranch, upheld the Commission on one condition and overruled on another.

Upheld was the requirement that no building permit for the proposed service station would be issued until 50% of the construction of the remainder of the shopping center was under way. Overruled was the Planning Commission ruling that the service station had to be of a reverse design.

PEGGY HEBARD

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donald Hebard of this city have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Louise, to Michael Steven Muscato, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Muscato, also of Campbell.

Peggy, as she is known to her friends, is a junior at the University of California, Santa Barbara. She was graduated with the class of 1967 from Campbell High School. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delvin V. Markey of San Jose and the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hebard of Los Gatos.

Michael is a junior at the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland. He also attended West Valley College and is a graduate of Campbell High School. Peggy and Michael are planning an August wedding.

Bethel 174 enjoys full fall social calendar

Campbell Bethel No. 174, Job's Daughters, have been enjoying a busy fall season with hayrides, barbecues, masquerade dances interspersed along with their regular meetings.

A Secret Dad's Night was observed in October with many of the fathers present to discover their "secret daughters". Refreshments were served and several girls of the Bethel entertained with a dance number.

A "mystery trip" to Roaring Camp with DeMolay members as their guests was also part of the October social scene, with everyone enjoying a real hayride following a barbecue. A masquerade dance was held the next week at Hamilton School.

November activities included a beautiful ceremony at which time 10 girls received their majority and Alice Mackay was elected as the new Marshal.

Participating in the ceremony were Lynette Long, Jan Walford, Debbie Larson Dean, Mary Gaddis, Ruthe Parker, Elizabeth Trvine, Marilyn Ruick, Denise Browning Lengofelter, Linda Little and Sheri Smith Griffin.

Sixteen girls from Bethel No. 174 participated in the opening Bible ceremony at which time the Grand Guardian Council Session installed Mrs. Lucy Warren and Mrs. Kermit Hollenbeck as Grand Guardian and Associate Grand Guardian of the State of California.

Also in November six girls were initiated at exemplification ceremonies held at Charity Lodge in Campbell. New initiates included Denise Holmes, Jeri Harkleroad, Marilyn Jensen, Sharon Parsons, Lisa Bender and Linda Uhler.

On Nov. 22 the girls gathered for the "farewell" meeting honoring retiring Honored Queen Cindie Stephenson. The Grange Hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion and refreshments were served.

Congregational church welcomes new organist

Members of the Congregational Church of Campbell, 400 W. Campbell Ave., welcomed John C. Stamm as their new organist during the last Sunday services. Stamm takes the place of Mrs. Jean Ketchel, who served as church organist for many years before moving to Washington, D. C.

A coffee hour honoring Mrs. Ketchel was held recently at which time she was presented with a gift from the church and also from the junior choir which she had directed for several years.

Stamm was a student of music in the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the University of Chicago, as well as the Chicago Conservatory. He has served as church organist in Chicago, Fresno and Abilene, Texas, and was appointed to the position following auditions by the music committee of the church.

A talent search is being conducted at this time by the choir director, Roger Kingman, for new choir singers and soloists. Further information may be had by calling the church office, 378-4418.

The junior choir group of fourth through eighth graders will now be directed by Mrs. Jack Petree. The junior choir rehearses every Monday evening from 7 to 8 p.m. A "Crusaders' Choir" for first, second and third graders is under the direction of the Rev. Anthony Wayne Myers, and meets at 4 p.m. on Mondays.

THANK YOU AND GOOD-BY---Mrs. Jean Ketchel, Congregational Church of Campbell organist for many years, was honored recently during the coffee hour following the services on the occasion of her last appearance at the church organ. She and her husband, Robert Ketchel, have now moved to Washington, D.C., with their daughter, Holly, who is seen in the center. Presenting a gift to Mrs. Ketchel on behalf of the church is the Rev. Anthony Wayne Myers.

A "Name That Tune" contest will be held with prizes being donated by the Stevens Music Co. of Lincoln Ave. and the singing of Christmas carols will be enjoyed during the evening. In order that everyone can enjoy the evening, the dinner will be catered with the members furnishing desserts. An exchange of gifts is being planned.

The November meeting was held recently at the N. Carlyn Ave. home of Mrs. Virginia Beckett, president of the organization.

Community Christmas carols will be a feature of the annual Christmas Potluck luncheon planned for Thursday, Dec. 4 by members of St. Lucy's Altar Society. The delightful affair is scheduled for 12 noon and will be held in Kennelly Hall.

Accompanying the singers on the piano will be Mrs. C. Magnasco. Instead of exchanging gifts between members, each lady will be asked to bring a wrapped gift suitable for a patient in a rest home. The gift should be marked "aunt" or "uncle" to indicate man or woman.

Mrs. Fred Smith is serving as chairman for the Christmas festivities assisted by Mesdames Pauline Cusumano, Vincenzo Etare, Angie Torretta and Anderson. Decorating the hall will be Mrs. Joseph Aversente.

Wide-eyed in Washington

By Mason Sacks

Newspapers can and do play an important role in the running of our country; the press has sometimes been referred to as the "fourth branch of the government." The nature of the role that the press ultimately plays is influenced by many factors.

Not the least of these factors is the attitude of the newspaper reporter himself toward his own work and the role that he should play. In speaking with Washington correspondents from several different newspapers, I found that these attitudes can vary greatly.

"I feel that I must serve as both an informer and interpreter," related a correspondent from a Toronto newspaper. "Canadian readers possess little background knowledge of American affairs, at least when compared to the American reader. Therefore, in addition to presenting the basic facts of a situation, I also have to attempt to explain what they mean."

A correspondent from a newspaper in Minneapolis, Minn. presented a similar view. "Things are so complex today that the average reader hardly can be expected to comprehend all of the implications of a particular news event. Even if you are in the thick of things, right here in Washington, it takes an incredible amount of time to sort things out.

A newspaper, I believe, should do all that it can to help the reader in his own individual sorting process."

"One of the most important qualities of a reporter is to be highly cynical," stated a correspondent from a Rhode Island newspaper. "If a person can fool the news media, he can fool everyone. I view the press as a type of protector for the public. You'd be surprised how many people would try to put one over if they got the chance. It's up to the press to try to keep this from happening."

The correspondent from Rhode Island went on to say that "nerve" is required if a reporter is to do his job properly. "Sometimes when I am trying to get certain information from an official, he will sidetrack and seem to dare you to get them back on the track.

"You have to be tough to keep asking questions when it's obvious that he doesn't want to answer. And the more important an official is, the more nerve it takes to keep pressing."

"I believe that the primary role of the press is to investigate and expose what the government is doing," commented a correspondent for a newspaper in New York.

"A reporter who exposes corruption such as in the Bobby Baker case is fulfilling the press's highest obligation. To be an investigative reporter, however, is not easy; it is much harder to dig up facts than to merely report them. It takes much time and hard work, and you always have to take the risk that your efforts might be totally wasted. The 'scandal' you've been looking into may turn out to not be a scandal at all."

A correspondent from another New York newspaper disagreed strongly with many of the above observations. "If you ask me," he said, "a newspaper reporter has only one job: to get the facts and report them to the reader. I don't think that a reporter should do any interpreting at all. The reader should receive an objective accounting of the facts, and that's all. When you start 'explaining' things, a news story can become biased. And a biased story can be worse than no story at all."

Seniors present class play

"Up The Down Staircase" has been chosen for the 1970 Campbell High senior class play, to be performed on Dec. 4 and 5 in the Campbell High School Auditorium, 1 West Campbell Ave., at 8:00 p.m. The price of admission is $1. The proceeds will go towards the Senior Sneak Day.

"Hi, Teach!" are the first words to greet the attractive Sylvia Barrett, played by Sue Gerrells. This is the moment for which she's worked so hard–her first day teaching. There's special happiness in walking into the still empty classroom and for the first time writing her name on the blackboard.

Then her moment is shattered. Students pour into her classroom – curious, testing, challenging. Simultaneously there's a blizzard of paper work, warnings, contradictory orders, undecipherable instructions. Soon, Sylvia is in trouble for she can't stop herself from trying to defend an extremely hostile young man, Joe Ferone, played by Hector Hernandez.

She also finds herself the most involved person in the school; involved in the start of a romance, in a near-war with a discipline-over-everything administrator, J. J. McHabe, played by Tim Foley, but most of all involved in the unexpected, sometimes heartbreaking, but more often outrageously funny, problems of her students.

Open to the public.

SMUT FIGHTERS---Mrs. William Winter, left, representing St. Lucy's Church on the Santa Clara County Motion Picture and TV Council with Mrs. John Wesley, center, as the council president, presents Alfred C. Fabris, deputy district attorney, with an award citing him for "Outstanding Community Service in Upholding the Moral Code". Fabris initiated 75 cases involving obscenity and pornography during his tenure in office.

District 1 is composed of girls from the Saratoga, Los Gatos, Campbell and Cambrian areas.

Saturday, Dec. 13 is the date for the annual district-wide Craft Fair. This year the fair will be held at San Jose City College from 12:30 until 3:30. There will be approximately 700 girls of all ages participating. The girls have been busy during the past couple of months making the items which they will sell at individual tables set up by each participating group.

The fair is open to all Bluebirds, Camp Fire Girls and their families and the money that they earn is kept within the group for a group project of the girls choice.

Westmont Whirl

By Linda Hall

Cindy Ferney was crowned Homecoming Queen Nov. 19, during the Homecoming dance. Presiding beneath her were Princesses Jan West and Nancy Leone. The Warrior Shield staff sponsored the dance in hopes of raising money for the extra graduation edition.

The night of Dec. 17 at 8 the music department will present the annual Christmas concert. The theme, "'Twas the Night Before Christmas", will be carried throughout the decorations. Music will range from traditional Christmas songs to classical and contemporary pieces.

Westmont Speech and Debate club is again back in full swing this year as they traveled to Blackford High School for their first tournament. Returning home with all fifth place medals were: Debbie McCabe in original oratory division; Cindy Spence in dramatic interpretation division; and Mark Small, also in original oratory.

On Dec. 2, "The Search for the Homemaker of Tomorrow" test was given to all high school senior girls in homemaking classes. The test, sponsored by Betty Crocker, includes all facets of homemaking. It's purpose is to find the one girl who is most ready to face the world on her own.

Scholarships ranging from $500 to $5000 will be awarded to the girls placing high in the contest. Local winners were not known at press time.

Once again, the Seniors keep the "newsy" tradition by winning the annual all-school paper drive. A grand total of $210 was earned by the classes.

Homework has been thrown aside for the past month just to stage an all-out fight for the number one position. Students gathered papers as near as home and as far as the edges of the west valley.

Seniors have begun a trend of class rallies by presenting "The Twelve Years of School" to the student body. Almost magically, as if planned, all the seniors rose and paraded around the gym floor at the end of the rally chanting "SENIORS RULE!".

Juniors presented their rally by theorizing what they might be if they weren't juniors. They also left various reminders around the campus, including a "junior" blue teepeed tree in the middle of the quad, of their presence.

Using high octane spirit never before seen in the Freshman class, the freshmen shot down the upper classes in the recently concluded PTA membership drive. They received $50 from the PTA for their efforts.

Prospect Pulse

by IVALEE INGRAHAM

Over 3500 fans attended the Second Annual Thanksgiving Game between Branham and Prospect. It was Prospect's first Homecoming game and Panther gridders won it 32-14 on their home field.

Pre-game and halftime activities included shows by the combined Prospect and Branham bands. While the Prospect Band played "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You", the 1969 Homecoming Queen and Princesses were introduced.

Lucy Arii, Head Song Girl, was elected Queen, while Kristi Anderson and Robin Thurner served as her princesses. Lucy was presented with red roses, while Kristi and Robin received pink roses.

Mrs. Barbara Gerould's business law classes went to court last Tuesday to observe it in action. While there they sat in on a trial and watched court procedures.

Prospect's orchestra and choir groups will present their annual Christmas concert on Dec. 16. The pieces they will present include the Christmas Song, Carol of the Drum, Christmas Festival and The Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah.

Seniors met last week during school to discuss activities for the year. This year they want to hold the traditional all-night party at Disneyland. Cost right now, per person, is $44.50. Seniors hope to raise enough money during the next six months to pay for half the cost. Various fund raising ideas are being planned, including a paper drive, a tin can drive and a Flea Market sale.

Camden Chatter

By DEBBIE UNDERWOOD

This year we are beginning a new tradition here at Camden. The student body has purchased three new permanent tiarras that will be used for each future Homecoming Queen and her court. From now on the three will be awarded trophies for their positions in the court.

The escorts in Thursday's halftime festivities were Dick Bebb, student body president who escorted the queen; Russ Ferrante, who represented the basketball teams and Phil Lind, who represented the baseball teams.

Camden's homecoming queen participated in the Santa Clara University Homecoming Queens Parade held last Saturday night at Buck Shaw Stadium. There are homecoming queens from high schools all over the valley who compete for this crown.

Camden's cross-country team certainly should be congratulated for a never-been-done-before achievement. All four divisions; freshman, sophomore, junior varsity and varsity, placed first in the district. They deserve a special recognition for their hard work in effort and team work. Congratulations!!

An all-girl Simplicity fashion assembly was held on Tuesday, Nov. 18. The latest in fall fashions were modeled by home economics students, with narration done by a Simplicity Pattern Company representative. The clothing modeled was also provided by Simplicity for the fashion show.

Plans are under way for the Christmas Dance which will be held on the nineteenth of December. The theme is "Snow Ball" with the attire calling for semi-formal dress. Gropus Cackus has been lined up for entertainment that evening. More details will be given later.

The Thanksgiving Story is told again

Indians, Pilgrims, a corn planting time followed by a feast, all part of the time-honored Thanksgiving story, were all re-enacted by the 50 tiny four-year-old children of the Campbell Parents Nursery School, 528 N. Harrison Ave., last week.

The pageant, complete with costumes, was arranged by Mrs. Frank Battaglia, one of the school's group coordinators assisted by Mrs. James Zalesny, who leads a "play acting" class at the school. The children helped make their costumes and also made the beads and paper fruit to carry out the exchange of articles between the Pilgrims and Indians.

The program was conceived as a means of teaching children the meaning of Thanksgiving, and also hopefully, teaching them that giving is important and that they can say thank you without expecting anything in return.

The pageant was scheduled for two showings, one at the morning session of the nursery school and again at the afternoon session. The cooperative nursery school is run in conjunction with the Metropolitan Adult Education Program with Mrs. Helen Riedel as the professional director.

SPOON RIVER ANTHOLOGY---Edgar Lee Masters' free verse drama, directed by Jerry Roth and performed by The Playhouse theater group of San Francisco, will stage a one-night performance at West Valley College Dec. 4. Cast members Keith Reagan, Richard Spore, Daphne Shaull and Kenna Hunt will recreate the environment of the small-town dead who deliver autobiographical reminiscenses with retrospective irony.

Tickets for the 8:15 p.m. production at the Campbell Campus auditorium may be obtained through the Office of Community Services, located at 44 E. Latimer Ave., Campbell, room L-26. Further information may be obtained by calling 379-1733, ext. 58.

Health survey being made

The people in Santa Clara County including Campbell will be questioned this month about their health needs, in interviews by 150 volunteers from the Comprehensive Health Planning Association of Santa Clara County.

During December, interviewers will call on 1,500 families, representing one family out of every 200 in the Valley. This survey is one of several procedures developed by the Comprehensive Health Planning Association to discover the health needs of Santa Clara County citizens. Results will be used to set community health priorities and to develop a comprehensive health plan for Santa Clara County.

Individual households were selected at random by computer, with the assistance of the County Planning Dept., so that all households counted in the last County Census (April, 1966) had an equal chance at being selected.

Volunteers to carry out the home interviews were recruited from several PTA's, nurses' groups, students from the University of Santa Clara and San Jose State College, social clubs and other groups interested in improved health.

Questions about the household interview, or on the results of the survey can be answered at the office of the Comprehensive Health Planning Association, 1645 Willow St., San Jose, phone 265-0200. CHPA has been recognized by the County Board of Supervisors as the authorized health planning body for Santa Clara County. It is affiliated with the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council, and receives funding from the Federal government, Board of Supervisors and the United Fund.

REGRETS SIGNING

The Campbell Press -

Sirs:-

I signed a petition a week ago against a proposed Loop on the North side of Campbell Ave.

They did not explain in detail just what would be done.

I find out now most of the traffic would be travelling one-way on East Rincon Ave.

I do not favor East Rincon Ave. to be used by one-way traffic.

I am against the petition I signed.

Sincerely,

FARMERS TAX REDUCTION DEADLINE

Owners of farm property who want the tax reduction benefit of the Williamson Bill should obtain applications from the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors as soon as possible.

The deadline for filing the complicated forms is Dec. 15. The Clerk's office is located on the fifth floor at 70 West Hedding St., San Jose.

For any landowner whose application is approved, the Williamson Bill provides a decided property tax benefit.

All property not covered by the Bill's exemption is assessed for taxes at its "highest and best" use and value.

Under the Williamson law a farm would be assessed on the basis of the income it produces.

The new law requires the owner to sign a contract with the county promising to keep the land in agricultural use for 10 years.

This was started as a war-time service for boys overseas from the Bay Area who had seen former Christmas scenes at Breuner's, Oakland. Postcards of this year's display, in beautiful, lively color, will be available within a few days after the display is completed.

REFLECTIONS ON THE HAYNSWORTH MATTER

When the Senate resisted the appointment of Abe Fortas as Chief Justice and eventually caused his resignation as an Associate Justice, it started a chain reaction of important events. There isn't much doubt that the Fortas matter was the real beginning of the drama which recently resulted in Judge Clement Haynsworth's rejection.

But there were significant differences between the two cases. Justice Fortas apparently was in violation of a criminal statute (18 USC Sec. 203) while serving on the Supreme Court. This statute provides for a fine of $10,000, two years in jail, or both.

On the other hand, Judge Haynsworth's critics never challenged his integrity or honesty, nor did they allege that he had broken a law. But apparently many Senators felt that because of the Fortas incident there should be no cloud whatsoever on a future Court nominee including a mistake in judgment.

As a House Member, I was not called upon to vote on the Haynsworth confirmation so did not study his qualifications in detail. For this reason I will not criticize the result either affirmatively or negatively. Instead, I shall only raise some serious questions.

First, has a standard now been developed which would disqualify any mortal who has committed human error from serving on the High Court? Are nominees to the Court to be judged on a standard which very few, if any, Senators could themselves meet?

Secondly, if it is true that several of Haynsworth's opponents opposed him because he was a southerner, have we now reached the point where geographic considerations are as significant as judicial qualifications and morality? Is it proper to nominate a man because he lives in a certain part of the nation? Is it any more proper to judge him on that basis?

Thirdly, if it is true that some Senators voted against Haynsworth because he was a conservative and was once unfriendly to the civil rights movement, does it mean that a nominee must conform to a specific political philosophy in order to qualify? Because a man has personal convictions, does it follow that they will bias his decisions?

In 1930 Judge John J. Parker was nominated to the Supreme Court by President Hoover. Then, as now, a combination of labor and civil rights workers waged a successful campaign to oppose a nominee. AFL-CIO General Counsel Tom Harris who testified with George Meany before the Senate in the Haynsworth hearings said of the Parker rejection: "I agree with you that the attack on Judge Parker ... was unjustified.

But the Federation (AFL) succeeded in blocking the confirmation ... and, he served many years thereafter as a pro-labor judge. And if we can get both of the same two results here we will be happy." (laughter)

Though, as indicated in the hearing record, this statement provoked laughter in the committee room, the question it raises is no laughing matter. Have we now begun a system of choosing our judiciary on the basis of the pressures and counter-pressures which prevail in the political arena? All Americans should ponder this serious question.

THANKSGIVING HARVEST---This year, as in years gone by, the children of the Congregational Church of Campbell, 400 W. Campbell Ave., shared the bounty of the harvest with those less fortunate. During the opening services of the church each child presented, at the altar, baskets and bags of fresh produce, and the colorful mounds of pumpkins, squash, apples, oranges and nuts have become a traditional part of the Thanksgiving service.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

The first conviction and sentencing in the nation for fraud under the Medicare program occurred in the U.S. District Court for Northern Mississippi in Oxford. Dr. John W. Conway, III, Cleveland, Mississippi, was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States by making false statements and false representation to an agent of the Social Security Administration. He was sentenced to a $1,000 fine and three years of supervised probation.

Dr. Conway was convicted of submitting requests for payment of medical services allegedly rendered to Medicare beneficiaries when actually such services had not been rendered. These payment requests, involving 34 bills totaling $5,192, were made to the Travelers Insurance Co. at Greenville, Mississippi.

The money has been recovered by the Travelers Insurance Co. through recoupment of amounts due Dr. Conway for legitimate Medicare claims.

In San Francisco, John F. Richardson, Social Security Regional Commissioner for the twelve western states, said 14 other cases of potential fraud have been referred to the Department of Justice with recommendations for prosecution.

Richardson noted that under a reporting system established to prevent fraud and abuse, SSA nationally is receiving 150 to 200 cases for investigation each month. These cases are referred by beneficiaries, social security regional and district offices, and Medicare intermediaries and carriers.

In most cases an intent to defraud is not found but instead there has been a clerical error or other honest mistake. However, even if no prosecution results these investigations are not a waste of time as they are a necessary safeguard to the honesty of the Medicare program.

At the end of September, 1195 cases of possible abuse and fraud were under investigation nationally. (On the west coast, there were 210 cases pending investigation in San Francisco and 59 in Denver for the Rocky Mountain Area.)

These investigations involve charge of billing for services not rendered; billing for unnecessary services, double billing, alterations of bills, etc.

Richardson pointed out that these cases do not include many overpayment recovery actions taken directly by Medicare intermediaries and carriers, not the situations of unethical practice or over-utilization of services on which those intermediaries and carriers deal directly with physicians and medical societies and with hospitals and other institutions and suppliers.

Richardson stated that despite these cases the occurrence of fraud has been very low in the Medicare program.

Since Medicare began in 1966, over 200,000 doctors have been involved in providing services to the 19.3 million people enrolled in the medical insurance program. These services have resulted in 62.3 million bills paid under the program for a total of $3.7 billion.

Richardson added that the American Medical Association has made it clear that it favors appropriate action in any case where physicians are found to receive improper payments.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Al Salciccia

Do you know why the "bullpen" in a baseball park is called a bullpen? . . . In the old days, the Bull Durham Tobacco Co. put their advertising signs on the fences in many, many ball parks around the country and a lot of their signs were located in the area of the park where relief pitchers warmed up . . . That area began to be called the "bullpen", and it's been that ever since.

Thieves lift new wardrobe

A burglar with a taste for good clothing and electronic equipment entered the home of Robert D. Lillard, 215 Union Ave., Nov. 26 and made off with portable TV, portable radio, a rifle, 27 pairs of mens slacks and six mens suits and currency, among other items, which all added up to $3,665. Entry was made through a window.

Another thief hit where it hurts when he broke into a car belonging to Frank P. Fetlig, 81 S. San Tomas, over the weekend and lifted the tool box containing electrical trade tools.

Drugs and drug pushers continued to occupy Campbell police officers as they sought to clear the area of pushers who sold dangerous drugs to teen-age girls under the disguise of helping them lose weight. Parents in one case called in police when they found the pills in their daughter's purse.

West Valley Sports

BEST GRID SEASON

West Valley College, coached by Bob Jones, went into the first round of the state play-offs with an unblemished 9-0 record and the Camino Norte Conference title last weekend but couldn't stay there long. The Vikes were eliminated early as Chabot rambled to a 45-20 win in that do-or-die game, ending Valley's greatest ever grid year.

The Vikings were small targets for the large Gladiators but the number two ranked team of the week before was smothered by the oversized number six team.

With only two minutes left to play in the ball game, all WVC's rooters rose to their feet and began cheering madly in appreciation of the Vikes season performance. And the Valley gridders rewarded them with their best drive of the game moving in for D. Ray to smash over from one yard out with no time left on the clock.

Barnes fed Stan Hedegard in the end zone for the two-point conversion to break out with a respectable 20 points against a defense that had allowed only 43 in their last seven games.

West Valley defeated Ohlone, San Jose City, Cabrillo, American River, Marin, Contra Costa, Solano, Santa Rosa and DeAnza before dropping the last one to Chabot. D. Ray was the team's rushing leader with 1512 yards on 243 totes while Barnes was throwing for 106 of 207 and 1698 yards and 22 scores.

Top Viking receivers of the year were Loomis, 33 catches for 756 yards; L. Ray, 25 for 351 yards; and Hedegard, 21 for 379 yards. L. Ray scored 10 td's, kicked 32 PAT's and booted four field goals to lead the Valley scoring attack totaling 104 points. D. Ray tallied 78, Loomis caught passes for 48 points and Hedegard scored 32.

While the offense added the scoring punch, the Vike defense intercepted 16 passes, paced by Malone with five steals including a 55-yard touchdown catch-run. Gary Jacobson picked off three in the defensive secondary.

WATER POLO

"We did as well as we could but lacked experience," posted West Valley College water polo mentor Gene Nyquist after a losing season. West Valley ended the year at 13-18, the worst record in many years at the college.

"We lost a lot of games this year, but we had a real tough schedule," added Nyquist. WVC lost two games to DeAnza, three to San Mateo, the top two Northern California teams, three to Foothill, a NorCal third, two to the Stanford Frosh and one each to southern powers Orange Coast, Cerritos and Long Beach.

But the year wasn't a bad year. Valley finished fourth at the Northern California championships, the best ever for WVC, second at the Cabrillo Invitational and second at the recent NorCal Closed Tourney.

OUTSIDE USA

In November 1906 when President Theodore Roosevelt visited Panama, he became the first President to visit a foreign country during his term of office.

Campbell ties Los Gatos 14-14 in annual Thanksgiving battle

Campberl High won a moral victory on Thanksgiving Day in Los Gatos by deadlocking with Los Gatos 14-14, although Los Gatos won the league championship.

The Wildcats already had the league crown sewed up before the game, which was the 36th annual meeting between the two rivals. Los Gatos has no losses to mar its league record.

The 14-14 tie pleased the Campbell fans, coaches and players, for Los Gatos had been favored to roll over the Bucs with ease.

The Bucs ended the season with a 5-3-1 league record compared to the 8-0-1 record of Los Gatos.

The Wildcats got on the scoreboard first and led at half time 7-6. The Bucs had a PAT called back and then missed on the second chance.

Sophomore Steve Davis scored the first touchdown for the Bucs from two yards out after a drive that was highlighted by two 12-yard passes by Joe Alvarez.

Los Gatos scored again late in the third period but Campbell came right back in a 66-yard drive which was capped by a 28-yard Alvarez to Dave McLain pass for the score.

Then came the real test.

Alvarez hit Bill McCall with a pass for the crucial PAT and the "moral victory" tie for the Bucs.

In other league games played on Thanksgiving, Camden won from Del Mar 20-0; Leigh beat Westmont 53-0; Prospect defeated Branham 32-14 and Saratoga took Blackford 42-18.

Campbell ended in fourth place in the league standings with Leigh (7-1) in second and Saratoga (6-2-1) in third. Three teams, Prospect, Branham and Blackford had 4-5 records. Camden was 3-6, Del Mar 1-8 and Westmont was 0-9.

The 14-14 Los Gatos-Campbell tie was only the second deadlock in the 36-year-old series. Los Gatos has won 20, Campbell 14, with two ties.
